CALL FOR PROPOSALS Inspiring Teachers Conference 2019 July 19, 2019

Young Audiences Arts for Learning Virginia's mission is to inspire and engage students IN and THROUGH the arts. We hope that your session will reach educators in new and innovative ways that impact their classroom teaching! Please send completed CFPs to ArtsEd@yav.org with "ITC 2019 Proposal" in the subject line. Deadline for submission: December 31, 2018.

Background

YAV is committed to expanding opportunities for education and professional development, as well as providing a space for educators and artists to share their knowledge based on their skills, talents, and visions for the future. We invite arts educators, core curriculum educators who integrate the arts into their classrooms, and teaching artists to submit a proposal for YAV & ODU Inspiring Teachers Conference, which will take place on July 19, 2019.

What is the Inspiring Teachers Conference?

The YAV & ODU Inspiring Teachers Conference is an opportunity to bring together core curriculum and arts programming concepts in order to share successful teaching models with educators based on student statistics and successes achieved through arts integration. YAV recognizes that many educators and artists employ arts-integration techniques that can help students improve understanding and retention of material, and we wish to help spread that knowledge to other educators. The YAV & ODU Inspiring Teachers Conference is a low-cost way for educators to receive professional development credits that they are required to have.

How Does it Work?

Selected proposals will be invited to present at the YAV & ODU Inspiring Teachers Conference. Only Keynote Presenters will be paid a nominal fee for their workshop. Presenters will be asked to sign a contract that outlines the terms of the agreement between them and YAV. YAV will setup and manage registration, as well as setup and facilitate the online platform. The Presenter will be responsible for developing all materials, and retains intellectual property rights to their material.

B4. Session Design and Format

Provide a detailed description of how you will deliver your session. Since YAV prefer sessions that are practical and/or interactive, be sure to describe how audience members will be engaged. Enter your session format here. Use the following format to describe your session: [Activity] [Method] [Duration] [Related Objective #] [Explain activity]

B5. Attendee Materials

Describe 2-3 tangible materials or takeaways attendees will have at the completion of your session that they can implement immediately. A copy of your PowerPoint slides is not a takeaway, unless they include embedded notes. You are not required to share a sample of your materials; however, samples help to better shape your session, create a stronger proposal, and can be the difference when selecting between two equally qualified proposals. Feel free to submit up to three documents (100 mb file size limit).

B6. Presenter Experience/Biography

Describe your expertise and background in your chosen area and your ability to relate to the session audience. It should be no longer than 75 words per Presenter biography.

C. Session Selection

If your proposal is accepted, YAV will:

- Send regular electronic communication requiring Presenter communication and response regarding setup (including audiovisual needs), preparation, and support leading up to the session
- Ask that you submit an electronic copy of your attendee material(s) for attendees in advance of the ITC
- Ask you to market your participation to your clients and colleagues

Terms & Conditions for Presenters

NO SELLING of any kind can occur. However, Presenters may offer business collateral to interested parties after their session and contact them at a later date. Sessions are NOT to be used as a sales platform for any Presenter's company, products, or services.
